Study 21

New Testament Promises

New Testament Promises

The Objective is the key concept for this week's lesson. It should be the main focus of the study.

These are the key verses that you will find helpful in teaching your study this week. The "Main passage" is the basis of the study, where the other verse support the objective of the lesson.

There is a memory verse for the students that relates to every study. If a student can memorize the verse for the following week you may give them a prize from the "reward box" found on your cart.

An introductory activity or question that will settle the class, draw their attention to the study and prepare their hearts for God's Word.

Objective By the end of the lesson, the children should all know that even though Christ has ascended into heaven, we have not been left alone, but have been given His Holy Spirit. Also, He is coming back!

Key Verses

Acts 1:1-11—Main Teaching Passage

See page 5 for verses about the Holy Spirit

Memory Verse - John 14:26

"But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all things that I said to you."

Hook

Review last week's memory verse, John 14:15.

Begin the class with a discussion on the Holy Spirit. You might ask:

"Who is the Holy Spirit?"

"What does the Holy Spirit do?"

"What does the Holy Spirit do for/in us?"

"Why did Jesus send the Holy Spirit to live with us?"

What does the Bible say? This is where we will read a passage or series of passages that teach on the subject of the day.

BOOK

So far this year, we have looked at the promises held in covenants of the Old Testament and the promises given to us by Christ in His “I am” statements in John. Having completed these, we will now turn our studies to the promises given to the Church found in the New Testament.

Acts 1 begins with the disciples still not understanding the full reason for Christ’s sacrifice and asking if He was going to overthrow the Roman government and restore Israel to its former glory. Christ chided them before giving a final promise to His disciples. He said, “You will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you will be my witnesses,” through the whole earth. After ascending, the disciples remained staring up at where their Savior was until two angels arrived and delivered another incredible promise: “Jesus...will come again.”

In the space of four verses, the New Testament believer is promised the Holy Spirit, who indwells us and keeps us until Christ returns, and charged with carrying on His work of bearing witness to the whole world by proclaiming what He has done in us.

LOOK

We have been studying the life of Christ for the past 7 weeks, looking at the way that Jesus spoke about Himself. Imagine how the disciples must have felt here in Acts 1. They had been not only studying the life of Christ, but actually living with Christ for 3 years. They saw Jesus perform miracles, like healing the blind and raising Lazarus from the dead. They even saw Him crucified and then three days later rise up from the grave. They had spent every possible second with Jesus for three whole years, and here in Acts 1, He left them. They must have been absolutely shocked. In fact, when Christ did leave, they stood looking up at the sky until some angels came and told them to get on with it. The Savior, the beloved One, the Teacher, had gone.

But Christ did not leave them without first giving them the most important piece of information that they would need to know while He was gone. He told them that even though He would not be walking side by side with them anymore, He was going to send the Holy Spirit to live inside them. There are a lot of things that we learn about the Holy Spirit from Scripture. One of those things is found in this passage: the Holy Spirit gives us power.

We need to be clear, the Holy Spirit is not going to turn us into one of the Avengers. When we become a follower of Christ, we don’t gain super-strength or the ability to fire laser beams out of our eye balls. The mean? How does this

life?

LOOK (Continued)

Holy Spirit gives us power to bear witness to Christ's Name. Acts 1 is very specific about the aid that the Holy Spirit gives us. It enables us to speak in truth and love about our great Savior who died on a cross for the sins of the whole world, so that if anybody believe in Him, they will not perish but have everlasting life.

In the Gospel of John, we hear about some other things that the Spirit will do for us and through us. In John 14, Jesus tells us that the Helper is going to come. For a short list of some of the ways that the Holy Spirit helps us, turn to the next page. Yes, Christ has gone to be seated with the Father in heaven, but He has not left us alone in world. We have been given the Holy Spirit to lead us into all truth, empowering us to share the love of Christ with all around us.

There is another important truth given to us in this passage, one that we will look at several times before the year is done. We are promised, in this case by two angels, that Christ will return to the earth. Of all the joys and hopes that we can dwell on in this life, surely this is the greatest. Christ will return and take His Bride to be united with Him in glory. It could be today, or it could be another thousand years from now. We don't know exactly when Christ will come and set up His kingdom, but we do know that while we wait for Him, we are commanded to bear witness to His love and forgiveness with the whole world. We also know that while we wait for Him, the Holy Spirit abides in us, holding us and keeping us until the day of His return.

What is my response to this passage of Scripture? How should my life change according to what this passage teaches me? What are the practical things I can do throughout the week to make this true in my life?

TOOK

As a class, memorize John 14:26.

Pray: Thank the Lord for giving us the Holy Spirit to indwell us and to lead us into all truth. Ask Him to strengthen us to proclaim the good news in His name to all the peoples of the world. Praise Him for the joy that is set before us.

Parent Question: How does the Holy Spirit work in your life?

FURTHER STUDY

Commentary on Acts 1 by David Guzik

Acts 1 - Jesus Ascends to Heaven, A New Apostle Chosen

A. Prologue.

1. (1) Reference to former writings.

The former account I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach.

a. The former account I made: The former account is the Gospel of Luke. At one time the Gospel of Luke and the Book of Acts were joined together as one book with two volumes.

i. Imagine what it would be like if the Book of Acts wasn't in the Bible. You pick up your Bible and see the ministry of Jesus ending in the Gospel of John; next you read about a man named Paul writing to the followers of Jesus in Rome. Who was Paul? How did the gospel get from Jerusalem to Rome? The Book of Acts answers these questions. "A great New Testament scholar has said that the title of Acts might be, 'How they brought the Good News from Jerusalem to Rome.'" (Barclay)

ii. That expansion from Jerusalem to Rome is a remarkable story. "Humanly speaking, [Christianity] had nothing going for it. It had no money, no proven leaders, no technological tools for propagating the gospel. And it faced enormous obstacles. It was utterly new. It taught truths that were incredible to the unregenerate world. It was the subject to the most intense hatreds and persecutions." (Boice)

iii. Acts is written in the literary style of the Greek translation of the Old Testament, known as the Septuagint. "Since Luke can write in a different style (Lk. 1:1-4), this is something deliberate. Probably he regarded himself as recording sacred history." (Marshall)

iv. We really don't know all that much about Luke from the New Testament.

- We know that he was a physician (Colossians 4:14).
- We know that he was a Gentile (from his name).
- We know that he was a devoted companion of Paul (from the text of Acts, and Colossians 4:14, Philemon 24, and 2 Timothy 4:11).

v. There was a time when many scholars and critics thought that Acts was sort of a romance novel of the early church, written more than 100 years after the events supposedly happened. But William Ramsay, a noted archaeologist and Bible scholar, proved that the historical record of Acts is remarkably accurate regarding the specific practices, laws and customs of the period it claims to record. It is definitely the work of contemporary eyewitnesses.

vi. In the mid-1960's, A.N. Sherwin-White, an expert in Graeco-Roman history from Oxford, wrote about Acts: "The historical framework is exact. In terms of time and place the details are precise and correct . . . As documents these narratives belong to the same historical series as the record of provincial and imperial trials in epigraphical and literary sources of the first and early second centuries AD...For Acts the confirmation of historicity is overwhelming...Any attempt to reject its basic historicity even in matters of detail must now appear absurd. Roman historians have long taken it for granted."

vii. John Calvin wrote that the Book of Acts was "a kind of vast treasure." D. Martyn Lloyd-Jones called Acts "that most lyrical of books...Live in that book, I exhort you: It is a tonic, the greatest tonic I know of in the realm of the Spirit." (Cited in Stott)

b. Theophilus: This man might have been a Christian wanting instruction. He might have been a Roman official being briefed by Luke about the history of the Christian movement. Or, the name could be symbolic, because the name Theophilus means "God-lover."

i. In the introduction to the first volume (Luke 1:3), Luke addresses Theophilus with title most excellent, which was a way to address people who held high office.

ii. Since Acts ends with Paul awaiting trial before Caesar, some have wondered if Luke-Acts are not "defense briefs" on Paul's behalf to give a Roman official background on Paul's case. Luke arrived in Jerusalem with Paul in Acts 21:17; he left with him again on the journey to Rome in Acts 27:1. In those two years, Luke had plenty of time to research and write his Gospel and the Book of Acts.

iii. "Ancient books were generally written on papyrus scrolls. It was practical to have a scroll about thirty-five feet in length. When it got any longer it got too bulky to carry around. This physical limitation has determined the length of many books of the Bible." (Boice) Luke used two scrolls to tell his story, and one we call "The Gospel of Luke" and the other we call "The Book of Acts."

iv. Luke wanted to show Theophilus and the Romans:

- That Christianity is harmless (some Romans officials had embraced it themselves).
- That Christianity is innocent (Roman judges could find no basis for prosecution).
- That Christianity is lawful (as the true fulfillment of Judaism, which was an approved religion in the Roman Empire).

c. Of all that Jesus began both to do and teach: Notice that the former account concerned all that Jesus began both to do and teach. Luke's Gospel describes only the beginning of Jesus' work; Acts describes its continuation; and the work of Jesus continues to our present day.

i. We must remember that Acts does not give us a full history of the church during this period. For example, the churches in Galilee and Samaria are barely mentioned (Acts 9:31), and the establishing of a strong church in Egypt during this time isn't mentioned at all.

ii. Acts spans a period of about 30 years, and takes us up to about A.D. 60 or 61, with Paul in Rome waiting to appear before Caesar Nero. This same Nero began his infamous persecutions of Christians in A.D. 64.

iii. Wonderfully, what Jesus began still continues. There is a real sense in which the Book of Acts continues to be written today. Not in an authoritative Scriptural sense; but in the sense of God's continued work in the world by His Spirit, through His church.

iv. "The Acts of the Apostles should therefore be studied mainly for this double purpose: first, to trace our Lord's unseen but actual continuance of his divine teaching and working; and, secondly, to trace the active ministry of the Holy Spirit as the abiding presence in the church.” (Pierson)

2. (2-3) The last work of Jesus before His ascension to heaven.

Until the day in which He was taken up, after He through the Holy Spirit had given commandments to the apostles whom He had chosen, to whom He also presented Himself alive after His suffering by many infallible proofs, being seen by them during forty days and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

a. Until the day in which He was taken up: Jesus, through the Holy Spirit, instructed the apostles regarding what to do in His absence. He had given commandments to the apostles.

i. Significantly, Jesus did this through the Holy Spirit. This was the resurrected, glorified Lord Jesus Christ, risen with all authority and sovereignty. Yet He still chose to not rely on His own resources (as it were), but relied on the power and the presence of the indwelling Holy Spirit.

ii. The Holy Spirit – the Third Member of the Holy Trinity – is the aspect of God that lives and empowers and inspires man. The Holy Spirit has a work among those who are not yet believers, but also a great and significant work in those who believe.

iii. If the glorified, resurrected Jesus needed and relied on the Holy Spirit, so should we. This is a pattern for the rest of the Book of Acts, which shows us what the Holy Spirit does operating through the church. “The disciple is not above his Master, nor the servant above his Lord. If even he was indebted to the Holy Spirit for the power of his ministry, surely we cannot afford to attempt the work appointed us without the same anointing.” (Pierson)

b. To whom He also presented Himself alive after His suffering by many infallible proofs: Jesus also established the fact of His resurrection with many infallible proofs during the forty days after his resurrection but before His ascension. He left no possible doubt that He was resurrected, exactly as He had promised.

i. In 1 Corinthians 15:6 Paul described one of these many infallible proofs: He was seen by over five hundred brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain to the present. More than 500 people saw the resurrected Jesus, and most of them were still alive some 25 years later in the days of Paul’s ministry.

c. Speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God: The teaching Jesus gave during that period after His resurrection and before His ascension is not recorded, but we are told that He used that time to speak of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

i. Some Gnostic and New Age teachers would like to think that Jesus used those 40 days to teach His followers strange and obscure doctrines that must be rediscovered with new revelations today. But Luke told us that Jesus simply taught them much the same things and themes that He had taught them in His earthly ministry: The things pertaining to the kingdom of God.

B. The ascension of Jesus.

1. (4-5) Jesus’ final instructions to the disciples.

And being assembled together with them, He commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the Promise of the Father, “which,” He said, “you have heard from Me; for John truly baptized with water, but you shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit not many days from now.”

a. He commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem: Jesus had nothing else for the disciples to do other than to wait for the coming of the Holy Spirit (the Promise of the Father). Jesus knew that they really could do nothing effective for the Kingdom of God until the Spirit came.

- To wait means that it was worth waiting for.
- To wait means that they had a promise it would come.
- To wait means they must receive it; they couldn't create it themselves.
- To wait means that they would be tested by waiting, at least a little.

b. He commanded . . . the Promise of Father . . . baptized with the Holy Spirit: This is another example of how the fact of the Trinity – that there is One God in Three Persons – is woven into the fabric of the New Testament. Here we see that He (Jesus) told of the Promise of the Father, which is the coming of the Holy Spirit.

i. It is significant that this coming, filling, and empowering of the Holy Spirit is called “the Promise of the Father.”

- It shows that we should wait for it with eager anticipation; a “Promise of the Father” could only be good.
- It shows that it is reliable; the Father would never Promise something He could not fulfill.
- It shows that the Promise belongs to all His children, since it comes from God as our Father.
- It shows that it must be received by faith, as is the pattern with the promises of God throughout the Bible.

ii. “The ‘promise of the Father’ now became also the promise of the Son.” (Pierson)

c. You shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit: The idea of being baptized is to be immersed or covered over in something; even as John baptized people in water, so these disciples would be “immersed” in the Holy Spirit.

i. It may be more useful to describe the baptism of the Holy Spirit as a condition than as an experience. We should perhaps ask, “Are you baptized in the Holy Spirit?” instead of asking, “Have you been baptized in the Holy Spirit?”

d. Not many days from now: They knew that this Promise of the Father would come, but not immediately. It would be days from now, but not many days. Jesus had a purpose in not telling them exactly when it would come.

2. (6) The disciples ask Jesus a final question before His ascension.

Therefore, when they had come together, they asked Him, saying, “Lord, will You at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?”

a. Therefore, when they had come together: This would be the last time they would see Jesus in His physical body, until they went to heaven to be with Him forever. There is nothing specific in the text to show us that they knew this would be their last time seeing Him on earth, other than the weight of the question they were about to ask.

b. Lord, will You at this time restore the kingdom to Israel? This was a question asked many times before, but it had a special relevance now. They knew that Jesus had instituted the New Covenant (Luke 22:20). They also knew that the restoration of the kingdom to Israel was part of the New Covenant (as seen in Jeremiah 23:1-8, Ezekiel 36:16-30, Ezekiel 37:21-28).

i. It was actually reasonable for them to wonder when the rest of the New Covenant would be fulfilled. The response of Jesus in the following verses also indicates that He did not rebuke them or even correct them for the question. He simply told them that the answer wasn't for them to know.

ii. "The verb restore shows that they were expecting a political and territorial kingdom; the noun Israel that they were expecting a national kingdom; and the adverbial clause at this time that they were expecting its immediate establishment." (Stott)

iii. The disciples certainly knew the many Old Testament prophecies describing the spiritual and national rebirth of Israel. The disciples probably thought that the spiritual rebirth seemed certain, so the national would also come.

3. (7-8) Jesus' final teaching and final promise before His ascension.

And He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons which the Father has put in His own authority. But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you shall be witnesses to Me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth."

a. It is not for you to know: Jesus warned the disciples against inquiring into aspects of the timing of God's kingdom, because those things belong to God the Father alone (which the Father has put in His own authority).

i. It was wise for Jesus not to outline His plan over the next 2,000 years. It was good for the disciples to not know that the full restoration of the kingdom to Israel that they hoped would happen soon would not come for some 2,000 years. It might overly discourage them in the work they had to do right then, and might make them think less of the aspect of the kingdom of God that was present with them.

ii. At the same time, Jesus did not say that there was to be no restoration of the kingdom to Israel; He simply said that speculation into the time and date of this restoration was not proper for the disciples.

iii. In His own authority: The resurrected, ascended Jesus again showed His submission to the Father. His submission to the Father was not temporary, but eternal.

b. But you shall receive power: If the national kingdom they wanted would be delayed, the power they needed would not. They would soon receive power with the coming of the Holy Spirit.

i. With their question about the restoration of the kingdom to Israel, it is possible that the disciples still saw power too much in terms of Caesar's kind of power, and not enough in terms of God's kind of power.

c. And you shall be witnesses to Me: The natural result of receiving this promised power would be that they would become witnesses of Jesus, all over the earth.

i. Notice that this really wasn't a command; it was a simple statement of fact: When the Holy Spirit has come upon you . . . you shall be witnesses of Me. The words shall be are in the indicative, not the imperative. Jesus didn't recommend that they become witnesses; He said they would be witnesses.

ii. If we want to be witnesses, we need to be filled with the Holy Spirit. The best training program for evangelism is of little effectiveness without the filling of the Holy Spirit.

iii. Isaiah 43:10 has the Lord proclaiming to His people You are My witnesses. A cultic group today claims that this is their mandate for being "Jehovah's Witnesses." Unfortunately, they fail to see Isaiah 43:10 in the context of Acts 1:8; we are truly Yahweh's Witnesses when we are Jesus' Witnesses.

d. In Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth: The progress of the spread of the gospel message from Jerusalem, to Judea and Samaria, and then to the end of the earth becomes the outline of Acts.

- Acts 1-7 describes the gospel in Jerusalem.
- Acts 8-12 speak of the gospel in Judea and Samaria.
- Acts 13-28 tells of the gospel going to the end of the earth.

i. We may imagine the objections the disciples might think of to the places of ministry Jesus described.

- Jerusalem was where Jesus was executed at the word of an angry mob.
- Judea rejected His ministry.
- Samaria was regarded as a wasteland of impure half-breeds.
- In the uttermost parts of the earth, the Gentiles were seen by some Jews of that day as nothing better than fuel for the fires of Hell.

ii. Yet God wanted a witness sent to all of these places, and the Holy Spirit would empower them to do this work.

4. (9-11) Jesus ascends into heaven.

Now when He had spoken these things, while they watched, He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. And while they looked steadfastly toward heaven as He went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel, who also said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will so come in like manner as you saw Him go into heaven."

a. He was taken up, and a cloud received Him out of their sight: Jesus was taken up from them as He blessed them (Luke 24:50). As He slowly disappeared into the sky, surrounded by a cloud they continued to gaze upward.

i. The cloud that received Him is suggestive of the cloud of glory (called the Shekinah) that is associated with the presence of God in the Old and New Testaments.

b. While they watched, He was taken up: It was important for Jesus to leave His disciples in this manner. In theory, He certainly could have simply vanished to heaven and the Father's presence in a secret sort of way. But by ascending in this manner, Jesus wanted His followers to know that He was gone for good, as opposed to the way He appeared and reappeared during the 40 days after His resurrection.

i. Remember Jesus' words to His disciples in John 16:7: It is to your advantage that I go away; for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you; but if I depart, I will send Him to you. Now the disciples could know that that promise would be fulfilled. The Holy Spirit was coming because Jesus promised to send the Spirit when He left.

c. Why do you stand gazing up into heaven? The two men (apparently angels) told the disciples to put their attention in the right place (obedience to Jesus' command to return to Jerusalem), not in wondering where and how Jesus went. Jesus told them to go to the ends of the earth, and they stood gazing up into heaven.

i. Morgan speculated that the two men were possibly Moses and Elijah. It seems best to say they were angels.

d. This same Jesus: This is a glorious phrase. It reminds us that the Jesus ascended to heaven and seated at the right hand of God the Father is the same Jesus of the Gospels. He is the same Jesus of love, grace, goodness, wisdom, and care.

e. Will so come in like manner as you saw Him go into heaven: Jesus will return just as He left.

- He left physically and will so come in like manner.
- He left visibly and will so come in like manner.
- He left from the Mount of Olives and will so come in like manner.
- He left in the presence of His disciples and will so come in like manner.
- He left blessing His church and will so come in like manner.
